

Amy M. Ho
Artist's Statement

Much of my work involves building and photographing miniature architectural models. Although the actual models are never shown as artworks, they play an important part in the process of making my projection installations. The work Recede V is a life sized re-creation of what was originally a miniature architectural model. Recede V uses layered frames to transform our perception of space and creates an illusion of a larger space.

Diagonal re-imagines the center wall of the gallery extending into a projected imaginary space. The projected space was created by photographing a miniature model space and depicts a corridor leading to another doorway. When photographing the model, the model space was lit with a series of diagonal lights that bisect the model.